What is your dream?

Growing up my dream was to become the next Beyonce`. I adored her and I still do, but as I got older and changed my dreams changed too. Now at the age of 18yrs old my dream is to become the next big name in fashion. I want to become a world famous designer and I also want to become the CEO of my own line/company. I don't know what it is about fashion but just the thought of it takes my breath away. Over the past years I grew a strong love for fashion. I love making clothes for people, it's a wonderful feeling just knowing that someone somewhere is wearing an article of clothing in which you yourself has handmade. Fashion is a miraculous world of fantasy and hard work that I would be thrilled to enter. My goal in life isn't to be rich, it's to be successful and happy with whatever career choice I choose to obtain. That's what fashion does to me. Fashion isn't a choice. It's a lifestyle it's my lifestyle. I am fashion, everything I do down to everything I say it is fashion. One of my favorite designers and motivators goes by the name of Vera Wang. I dont know what its is but I am in love with wedding dresses/gowns and Vera Wang just happens to have a whole collection of wedding gowns and they are the most gorgeous gowns I have ever seen in my life. I love them so much they literally take my breath away.

Another designer who I absolutely adore is Ralph Rucci. Everything he designs is like the element of freedom. It's so creative, some seemingly simple but always have a twist. I adore Ralph Rucci for the simple fact that even when no one knew his name or would even regard him as a designer, he would go out there everyday not knowing what would or could happen to change his life, his living situation, and his money problems. In my eyes he is the true definition of the phrase "hard work pays off". He also taught me to never stop doing your best just because someone doesn't give you credit. Being in fashion and being apart of it makes me realize that this is what I was put on this earth to do. Not just make myself happy and beautiful but to use my creative talents to not only make others happy and look their best, but also to inspire people and let them know that your dreams do not have to just be dreams they can be reality and from this moment forward I am living my dream.
